THE AMERICAN BASKETBALL League

ABL AMERICAN BASKETBALL LEAGUE

The American Basketball League was created to give America's best women's basketball players the opportunity to stay home in the United States to play professionally following illustrious collegiate careers. Entering its third season, the ABL is focused on its mission while at the same time providing exciting, family entertainment.

INAUGURAL SEASON

The ABL launched its 1996-97 inaugural season on October 18, 1996, two months after the U.S. Olympic Team's gold-medal performance in the Atlanta Games.

The Columbus Quest polished off its blistering pace of the regular season (31-9) by winning the ABL's first-ever championship. Colorado's Debbie Black notched a quadruple-double and Carolyn Young (formerly Jones) led the league in scoring. The league averaged nearly 3,600 fans per game.

THE SECOND SEASON

The league's sophomore season began where it left off, with the Columbus Quest leading the pack. Portland transformed its 1996-97 last-place finish into a 1997-98 Western Conference title behind ABL MVP Natalie Williams, who led the league in both scoring and rebounding. The Quest outlasted the expansion Long Beach StingRays to win its second ABL title. Attendance increased by 23 percent between seasons one and two.

A QUICK Look Back

FIRST - A LOOK AT THE BEGINNING

The New England Blizzard, one of eight original charter-member teams, is part of the American Basketball League - a women's professional basketball league which is widely considered to be the strongest women's pro basketball league ever formed and also widely considered to be the most talented women's pro basketball league in the world today.

The ABL came into existence with its announcement in September of 1995 at a press conference in San Jose - under the guidance and auspices of league co-founders Gary Cavalli, Steve Hams, and Anne Cribbs. The ABL came into being in order to give America's best players the opportunity to showcase their talent in their own country.

The ABL's first season - the 1996-97 season - immediately came on the heels of the U.S. Olympic Team's sweeping success in Atlanta - where it finished its year-long effort with a perfect 60-0 record, culminated by winning the gold medal.

On October 18, 1996, in front of an enthusiastic crowd of 8,767 at the Hartford Civic Center, the New England Blizzard, under the leadership of General Manager Pam Batalis, hosted the very first ABL game versus the Richmond Rage. Led by guards Carolyn Jones and UConn product Jennifer Rizzotti among others, the Blizzard won by a score of 100-73. Later that same night, the San Jose Lasers hosted the Atlanta Glory in a game that featured '96 U.S. Olympians Jennifer Azzi of the Lasers and Teresa Edwards of the Glory, perhaps the two most influential of the ABL's founding players.

The Blizzard did not have the best of seasons on the court in '96-'97, winning just 16 while losing 24 games, failing to make the playoffs.

Following two rounds of playoffs, the Eastern Conference champions, the Columbus Quest (with the best record of 31-9 in the regular season) won the first ABL championship series, 3 games to 2, over the Richmond Rage.

For the Blizzard, Jones and Rizzotti had been named All-Stars at mid-season and played in the first ABL All-Star Game on Dec. 15, 1996 at the Hartford Civic Center. Jones went on to win the ABL's first scoring crown, averaging 21.2 ppg, just 0.1 ppg better than the Glory's Edwards. Jones was named Second Team All-ABL - and just missed being named to the First Team.

About three weeks following the season, Blizzard head coach Cliffa Foster resigned from her position - only to be replaced, in what many referred to as a major coup, by NBA Hall of Famer and former Boston Celtics player and head coach K.C. Jones about two months later.

THE '97-'98 REGULAR SEASON

Every American Basketball team has a saga to tell once the season is over. What was the New England Blizzard's story of '97-'98, and how was it different than its story of '96-'97?

Well, last year's saga was VERY different.

How so?

Let's count the ways.

Last year, the two Blizzard players (6-7 center Kara Wolters and 6-1 forward Dale Hodges) who were chosen in the first round of the 1997 ABL Draft not only played a lot, but contributed mightily to the '97-'98 campaign. In the previous year, the two players who were chosen to be New England's "premier players" in the 1996 ABL Draft never even made it to training camp.

Last year, before coming on board, the Blizzard coaching staff had accumulated a combined "36 years of coaching experience," either as a head coach or as an assistant, on the professional and/or NCAA Division I level. K.C. Jones had accumulated 24 years of experience, Boe Pearman 12. In the previous year, before coming on board, the Blizzard coaching staff had accumulated a total of zero years in the same categories (they were coaches with NCAA Division II or NAIA experience).

Last year, Blizzard opponents shot a mere .429 from the field. The previous year, they shot .450.

Last year, the Blizzard outscored its opponents 75.9 points to 75.6, and outrebounded its opponents 37.7 rebounds to 37.2. The previous year, it was the opposite. The Blizzard was outscored 82.6 points to 81.3, AND outrebounded 38.5 caroms to 37.4.

Last year, the home team finished with a 17-5 record at its two home sites of Hartford (12-4) and Springfield (5-1), producing the second best home record in the league behind eventual league-champion Columbus (21-1). The previous year, the home record was a less-than-stellar 11-9, including a 6-2 mark in Hartford and just 5-7 in Springfield.

Last year, the team lost exactly zero player-games to injury - a remarkable feat, and a tribute to first-year trainer Jeanna Polonchek. The previous year, in a spate of bad luck, the Blizzard lost 53 player-games to injury with a variety of ailments.

Last year, the Blizzard attracted a league-leading 194,848 fans during the regular season (the average was a tremendous 8,857). That included three sellouts of 15,000-plus, eight crowds of 10,000-plus, and 14 crowds of 8,000-plus. During the previous year, the Blizzard attracted 100,166 fans for an average of 5,008 - which also led the ABL in average attendance.

Finally, last year's Blizzard team did, in fact, make the playoffs, finishing four games above .500 at 24-20, good for a second place finish in the ABL's Eastern Conference. The previous year's Blizzard team did not make the playoffs, finishing eight games under .500 at 16-24, good for fourth and last place in the ABL's Eastern Conference.

So one can see major improvement in many, many different areas - both on and off the court.

From an individual point of view, five players returned from the previous year's squad - and four of those players started throughout much of the season. The four starters included 1996-97 and 1997-98 All-Star guards Carolyn Jones and Jennifer Rizzotti, as well as center/forward Shanda Berry and forward Karen Deden. Another returner, guard E.C. Hill, started the first three games of the '97-'98 season.

As was the case in '96-'97, the 5-9 Jones was the team's scoring leader. The '92 Olympian led the league in scoring in 1996-97 with her 21.2 ppg average. Then last year, Jones upped that to 21.9 ppg, although she finished second in the league as a result of her scoring a mere "one less total point" (964 to 963 in 44 games each) than the Portland Power's Natalie Williams. In Carolyn's final 10 games last season, she averaged a glossy 25.1 ppg. She led the team in scoring 35 times in those 44 games.

Jennifer Rizzotti, at 5-5 the second shortest player in the league, increased her scoring output from 7.9 ppg to 10.8 ppg last season. She increased her shooting percentage from .404 to .420, shooting mostly three's during the season, but dramatically improving her dribble penetration, her number of made lay-ups, and her ability to shoot jumpers off the dribble.

Once again, Rizzotti led the team in assists (4.3 pg) and steals (2.0 pg), as well as in grit and determination.

First-round draft choice Dale Hodges, despite her diminutive 6-1 stature for a post player, led the team in rebounding at 6.8 per game. Hodges averaged 9.0 ppg and was considered a crowd favorite for her hustle.

Jones, Rizzotti, and Hodges were the only three players to start all 44 regular-season games for the Blizzard. (This threesome also started the two Blizzard playoff games).

Karen Deden, a 6-4 forward, maintained her label as the team's best passer. The University of Washington alum averaged 6.6 points and 3.9 rebounds. She averaged 11.4 points and 4.3 rebounds in the team's last 11 games.

The center combination of Shanda Berry and Kara Wolters averaged 17.1 points and 10.1 rebounds as a tandem. Broken down, Wolters averaged 9.8 points and 5.2 rebounds, while Berry averaged 7.3 points and 4.9 caroms.

Wolters, the '97 AP National Player of the Year while at UConn, led the entire league with an ABL record 64 blocked shots. She also finished second (behind Sylvia Crawley) in the ABL's first annual "Slam-Dunk" Contest at the All-Star Game in mid-January.

The squad was also complemented by a fine group of role players who came off the bench. That group included 5-8 point-guard Deanna Tate (3.5 ppg, 2.2 rpg), 5-7 guard E.C. Hill (3.0, 0.6), 6-0 forward Carla Berube (2.8, 1.3), 6-1 forward Jannon Roland (2.0, 0.5), and 5-10 guard/forward Tara Davis (0.8, 0.8).

For a little more than half of the season, the Blizzard was also comprised of 5-11 forward Traci Thirdgill, who averaged 1.4 points and 1.4 rebounds before she was traded to the Columbus Quest for Roland on December 29.

IN THE PLAYOFFS

After such a promising finish (four straight final regular-season wins), the Blizzard did not fare so well in the ABL playoffs, losing in the first round to the San Jose Lasers, 2 games to 0. In the first game, played in front of an ABL record playoff crowd of 10,183 at the Hartford Civic Center, the fourth-seeded Blizzard was upset by the fifth-seeded Lasers, 80-78, on Feb. 20. Carolyn Jones led New England with 32 points. Then just two days later in the San Jose Events Center, the Lasers wound up sweeping the best-of-three series, two games to zero, by winning 83-71. Again it was Jones who led New England with 23 points.

The Lasers went on to lose, 2-0, to the Columbus Quest in one of the two ABL semifinal series. In the other semifinal series, the Western Conference Champion Portland Power was upset by the expansion Long Beach StingRays, 2 games to 0. Earlier the StingRays had beaten the Colorado Xplosion, 2 games to 1, in the other first round series.

In the best-of-five championship series, the Columbus Quest, trailing 2-0, came back to win the series, 3-2, over the StingRays. The Quest won the final game in Columbus, 86-81, thus becoming the two-time ABL champions.

THE Staff

GENERAL MANAGER

CHRIS Sienko

Christopher Sienko was named interim general manager of the New England Blizzard of the American Basketball League August 6, 1998, as announced by ABL Co-Founder and CEO Gary Cavalli.

Sienko replaced Pam Batalis, who was named Vice President for Sales for the ABL on the same day.

Like Batalis, Sienko has been with the league since its inception. Batalis had named Chris her Director of Marketing and Corporate Development as of July 3, 1996. Sienko has been responsible for garnering local sponsorship support and establishing the Blizzard's local visibility with many marketing and advertising plans. He will continue those duties during his tenure as interim GM.

During Sienko's tenure, the Blizzard has led the ABL in attendance and total revenue each of the past two seasons, including a 77 percent increase in attendance between seasons one and two.

"First, I would like to congratulate Pam on her new position," said Sienko. "While this is a loss for the Blizzard, there is no doubt in my mind that the league will best be served by placing her in this important capacity."

"As far as the Blizzard is concerned, in my interim basis, I'm hoping to maintain the same strong course that Pam has already set for this team," added Sienko. "Our goals will be no different. With the support of the best fans in the ABL, we still hope to lead the league in attendance and enthusiasm."

"Chris Sienko brings tremendous ability to the interim GM post in New England," Cavalli said. "Pam and Chris have proven to be a potent one-two punch for the Blizzard in the greater Hartford business community. We have all the confidence in Chris that he will continue that momentum."

Cavalli has indicated that a search would begin immediately for a full-time Blizzard general manager and that Sienko would be considered among the leading candidates.

"In Chris Sienko, the Blizzard has an interim general manager who has my full support," said Batalis. "He is very capable of stepping in and leading the Blizzard to the next level and is one of the many from the Blizzard staff that has made the Blizzard what it is today. I'm very excited for him."

Sienko, 33, has a bachelor's degree in graphic design from the University of Connecticut ('88).

Previous to the Blizzard, Sienko was a partner in a small advertising agency for seven years (1990-96). Previous to that, Sienko was a marketing director for an aviation services company for one year (1989-90). He is currently a member of the Greater Hartford Sports Commission.

AMERICAN BASKETBALL LEAGUE
VICE PRESIDENT FOR SALES

PAM Batalis

Pam Batalis, formerly the General Manager of the ABL's New England Blizzard, was named Vice President for Sales for the American Basketball League on August 6, 1998, ABL CEO and co-Founder Gary Cavalli announced. It was also announced on that day that Christopher Sienko, the Blizzard's Director of Marketing and Corporate Development, would serve as the team's interim GM.

In her new role, Batalis, 35, will be responsible for league-wide sales strategies, including national corporate sponsorship solicitation.

"I'm honored to be presented the opportunity to contribute to the success of the ABL at the league level," said Batalis. "The chance to impact the strategic direction of the league is appealing. At the same time, I'm going to miss the constant interaction with the best women's basketball fans in the world.

"After two years of blood, sweat, and tears in helping to create the Blizzard, I can honestly say that I will still bleed Blizzard Blue," said Batalis. "I'm very proud of what we have created with the Blizzard, and how the Blizzard has impacted the greater Hartford area, all of New England, and even nationally."

Batalis has already established her national sales office in Hartford.

"I may be moving up," quipped Batalis, "but I'm not moving out. I hope to watch and be a part of the continued growth and progress of Hartford right from within the city."

"Pam Batalis has been a big part of the ABL from its inception," said Cavalli. "She is considered the ABL's top sales person. She has produced tremendous sales and attendance records in two seasons with the Blizzard. On the heels of our recent television deals with CBS Sports and FOX Sports Net, Pam is the ideal person to maximize our sponsorship opportunities. At the Final Four in Kansas City, she gave a marvelous group sales presentation to our team general managers. We feel this model will serve as a valuable resource if provided to our teams on a regular basis."

Recently, she was named one of the Top 50 Women's Sports Executives nationally by Street & Smith's Sports Business Journal. She also recently completed a three-month stint as interim GM of the Philadelphia Rage.

Previous to the ABL, Batalis had been the New England Team Sales Manager for Reebok. At Reebok, Batalis' chief accomplishments, besides increasing sales to unprecedented levels, were the creation of the blueprint and strategy for the Women's Sports Marketing Division, as well as developing the position of Team Sales Representative in the Northeast.

A former Rhodes Scholar candidate, Batalis this past year was named a Trustee at her alma mater, St. Michael's College in Winooski, VT, where she earned honorable mention All-American honors and captained her basketball team as a senior. In 1985, she earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in Journalism from St. Michael's. In 1991, she received her master's degree in Sport Management from the University of Massachusetts.

HEAD COACH

K.C. Jones

When K.C. Jones was introduced to an adoring crowd at the Hartford Civic Center Mall on May 13, 1997 by American Basketball League CEO Gary Cavalli, there were few even then that believed what they were seeing and what they were hearing.

Yes, K.C. Jones – THAT K.C. Jones – was being named the head coach of the ABL's New England Blizzard.

This was the same K.C. Jones who was the Boston Celtic legend – both as a player and as a coach. This was the same K.C. Jones who was elected to Springfield's Basketball Hall of Fame in 1988. This was the same K.C. Jones who sported the best winning percentage (.751) in Boston Celtics' coaching history. And this was the same K.C. Jones who had a hand in 12 – yes, 12 — NBA titles.

What was considered a bad stroke for the Celts, was considered a great stroke for the Blizzard.

On May 8,1997 there was a huge photograph of K.C. Jones on page 1 of the sports section of the Boston Globe as he was leaving his Celtic offices for the last time. He was holding a box of belongings. But he had a big smile on his face. At the time, people must have asked why.

Well, at 10 o'clock the next morning, he was in the Blizzard offices in Hartford meeting with the entire Blizzard staff and three of its players – the UConn trio of Jennifer Rizzotti, and the just recently-drafted Kara Wolters and Carla Berube.

Less than 72 hours later, all the details had been worked out between Cavalli and Jones – and K.C. was now a part of the ABL.

K.C. signed a four-year deal with the ABL and the Blizzard – although he has certainly implied since then that he wouldn't mind staying longer, if asked.

"I'm very excited about this opportunity," said Jones. "I've had the chance to coach young girls and young women in my camps for many years and have always been impressed by how enthusiastic and coachable they are. So when the chance came about to talk to the ABL, I was very interested.

"When I visited the Blizzard staff in Hartford, I was very impressed with the general manager (Pam Batalis), and the players were awesome," said Jones. "I also felt very good about the people in Palo Alto (the league office). Let's just say that I hope to build a championship team in New England."

"This is a great day for the American Basketball League," said Cavalli on that May day. "K.C. Jones is one of the true legends in the sport of basketball. He's not only one of the most successful coaches in the history of the sport of professional basketball and a 12-time NBA champion as a player and coach, but he's also well-known as one of the finest people in the game."

Now entering his second year as the head coach of the New England Blizzard, Jones hopes to improve upon last year's record of 24-20, which was good for a second place finish in the ABL's Eastern Conference. He also hopes to push the Blizzard deeper into the playoffs, certainly deeper than last season's first-round loss to the San Jose Lasers.

THE ACCOMPLISHMENTS

AS A PLAYER

When it comes to basketball accomplishments, Jones has set a standard that few have matched. As a player, he owns two NCAA titles, one Olympic gold medal, and eight NBA titles.

As a head coach, he has led his teams to the NBA finals five times, winning two of them (both with the Celtics). As an assistant coach, he owns two more NBA titles – for a grand total of 12.

Jones is one of only seven men – Clyde Lovellette, Bill Russell, Jones (the third to accomplish the feat), Jerry Lucas, Quinn Buckner, Michael Jordan, and Magic Johnson – to have won an NCAA title, Olympic gold medal, and an NBA championship.

Jones was the No. 1 draft pick of the Boston Celtics on April 30, 1956. Boston also had another first-round selection that same year in a trade from the St. Louis Hawks. Then-coach Red Auerbach chose a college teammate of Jones at USF — Bill Russell – who helped lead the Dons to two straight NCAA titles (1954-55 and 1955-56) and a stretch of 60 straight wins.

After graduation in '56, Jones helped lead the collegiate U.S. basketball team to a gold medal at the summer Olympic Games in Melbourne, Australia. Following the Olympic Games, he served at Ft. Leonard Wood in Missouri (1956-58) before beginning his professional career.

A gifted athlete, Jones was drafted by the NFL's Los Angeles Rams as a cornerback, but did not sign due to injury.

Jones joined the Celtics as a point guard in 1958, and helped the team win eight straight NBA titles (still the record) from 1958-59 to 1965-66 (Red Auerbach's last year as head coach).

In K.C.'s final year as a player, his Celts finally lost to the Philadelphia 76'ers in five games in the Eastern Conference finals in 1966-67.

K.C. averaged 7.4 points, 4.3 assists, and 3.5 rebounds during his career (676 games). He played in 105 more playoff games (see Jones' playing record on adjoining page).

Jones spent much of his early career as a back-up to fellow Hall of Famer Bob Cousy before taking over the starting role during the 1963-64 season following Cousy's retirement.

AS A COACH

Jones retired from playing after the 1966-67 season. He immediately jumped to coaching, first serving three years as head coach at Brandeis University in Waltham, MA (35-32 record, .523), followed by an assistant's position at Harvard University in 1970-71.

Not surprisingly, K.C. won an NBA title in his first experience as an NBA coach. In 1971-72, he was an assistant coach with the L.A. Lakers, which won it all that year.

K.C. remained in Southern California the next season (1972-73), this time as head coach of the San Diego Conquistadors, where he coached the team to a 30-54 record (.357) during that team's inaugural season in the ABA.

Jones' first NBA head coaching position came with the Washington Bullets, where he spent three seasons (1973-76) and led the team to a 155-91 record (.630), including the NBA finals in 1974-75 (losing to the Golden State Warriors). He then moved on to Milwaukee, where he served as the Bucks' assistant coach for one season (1976-77).

After a one-year stay, he rejoined the Celtics, this time as an assistant coach from 1978 through '83. Led by a young Larry Bird, the Celtics won a title (Bill Fitch was the head coach) in 1980-81, beating the Houston Rockets in the finals.

Then in 1983-84, the Celtics named Jones head coach. In his first year, with a starting five of Bird, Kevin McHale, Robert Parish, Dennis Johnson, and Danny Ainge, Jones led the Celtics to its 15th NBA Championship. In 1985-86, Jones led the Celtics to their 16th NBA title (the Celtics have not won one since). In four straight years, the Celtics were in the finals – beating the Lakers once(1983-84) and Rockets once (1985-86), and losing to the Lakers twice (1984-85 and 1986-87).

Jones compiled a 308-102 record in his five years as head coach of the Celtics. His .751 winning percentage was the best of any in Celtic history (see chart on adjoining page). After five seasons at the helm, Jones served as the team's vice president for basketball operations (1988-89).

Then in the early '90's, it was time to move West again, this time to the Pacific Northwest where he was an assistant coach of the Seattle Supersonics during the 1989-90 season. He was head coach of the Sonics for all of the 1990-91 season and half of the 1991-92 season before being released by the team – with a .500 record (59-59).

After his relatively short stint in Seattle, Jones became involved with a group attempting to start an Asian Basketball League, and continued hosting and participating in basketball clinics through 1994. He then became an assistant coach with the Detroit Pistons for one season (1994-95). He rejoined the Celtics staff in 1996-97 as an assistant. When the Rick Pitino era began with the Celtics, Jones' era ended with the Celtics.

Born in Taylor, Texas, Jones attended now-defunct Commerce High School (Class of '52) in San Francisco, before attending USF.

K.C. and his wife, Ellen, live in Sudbury, MA.

K.C. has six children, including Chris, age 14, who lives at home.

OVERALL

In all, Jones coached 10 years in the NBA (as a head coach) and owns a 522-252 record (.674), ranking him 17th all-time among NBA coaches. His three-year record with the Washington Bullets was 155-91. His five years with the Celtics, he was 308-102 (.751), and his 2 years with the Sonics, he was 59-59 (.500).

In 15 years as a head coach, including three at Brandeis (35-32), one with the ABA's San Diego Conquistadors (30-54), and one with the ABL's New England Blizzard, his record is 611-358 (.631).

Notes on K.C. Jones —

- In 10 years as an NBA head coach, K.C. Jones led his teams to the NBA Finals a total of FIVE times, winning two NBA titles (both with the Boston Celtics).
- K.C. Jones "favorite" NBA title was the '84 championship with the Boston Celtics. It was his first year as the Celtics' head coach. That team had a starting five of forwards Larry Bird and Kevin McHale, center Robert Parish, and guards Dennis Johnson and Danny Ainge.
- Jones was also head coach of the ABA's San Diego Conquistadors in 1972-73, the first year of the franchise. That team finished 30-54 (.357), and finished 4th of five teams in the ABA's Western Conference. The team did make the playoffs, but lost 4-0 to Utah in the first round.
- As an NBA coach, K.C. Jones never had a losing season. He brought teams to the NBA Finals five times — winning twice. In 1974-75, his Washington Bullets lost to the Golden State Warriors; in 1983-84, his Boston Celtics beat the L.A. Lakers; in 1984-85, his Celtics lost to the Lakers; in 1985-86, his Celtics beat the Rockets; and in 1986-87, his Celtics lost to the Lakers.
- K.C. Jones is one of many all-time great members of the Boston Celtics to have had his number retired to the rafters of the old Boston Garden and now in the Fleet Center. He wore number 25.
- K. C. Jones was selected to the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, MA in 1988 – due to his two NCAA championships at USF, and 12 NBA championships — 8 as a player with the Celtics (1958-59 through 1965-66, inclusive), 2 as a head coach of the Celtics (1983-84 and 1985-86), and 2 as an assistant coach (1970-71 with the L.A. Lakers, and 1980-81 with the Boston Celtics).
- K. C. Jones was a first-round draft choice of the Boston Celtics on April 30, 1956. Boston also had another first-round choice that same year in a pick from the St. Louis Hawks. Red Auerbach chose Bill Russell, K.C. Jones' teammate and classmate, from the 2-time NCAA champion University of San Francisco.
- Only seven men have ever won an NCAA championship, an Olympic gold medal, and an NBA championship. They are Clyde Lovellette, Bill Russell, K.C. Jones (the third to ever accomplish the feat), Jerry Lucas, Quinn Buckner, Michael Jordan, and Magic Johnson. K. C. Jones won his Olympic gold in Melbourne, Australia in 1956. He won his 2 NCAA titles in 1954-55 and 1955-56, where his USF teams won 60 games in a row.

ASSOCIATE HEAD COACH

BOE Pearman

Belinda "Boe" Pearman, originally named assistant coach of the New England Blizzard of the American Basketball League on June 10, 1997, has been re-named associate head coach of the Blizzard during the past summer by head coach K.C. Jones.

"I'm very pleased by this vote of confidence from my head coach and from the league," said Pearman, a native of Hagerstown, MD. "I guess you could call it a pat-on-the-back from K.C. It demonstrates my contributions last year were much appreciated.

"I can't say that I anticipate that there will be great changes in terms of duties," said Pearman, "although I'm sure there will be some. But I still very much appreciate the vote of confidence."

"I feel that Boe is a highly-qualified coach and is deserving of this promotion," said Jones. "In fact, she was promoted at my suggestion. Boe has a great deal to offer. Last year, she exceeded my expectations in her role as an assistant. In her new role as an associate head coach, she will have a lot more input and authority."

Pearman (pronounced PEER-man), now 35, had a load of success as a Maryland Terrapin both as a player and as an assistant under women's head coach Chris Weller.

Maryland teams, during Pearman's coaching tenure, earned three Atlantic Coast Conference championships, made the NCAA Tournament eight times, and reached the Final Eight twice (1988, 1992) and the Final Four on one other occasion (1989). During the '89 season, the Maryland team achieved a #1 national ranking for a period of several weeks.

A native of Hagerstown, MD, Pearman has helped develop two Kodak All-Americans at Maryland, including former Blizzard Deanna Tate, a 5-8 point-guard who played at Maryland from 1985 through 1989. Not only was Deanna (pronounced DEE-na) an All-American in '89, she was also a member of the '89 Final Four All-Tournament Team. Tate was the Blizzard's 1997 2nd-round draft choice, its third choice overall, and the 18th ABL player chosen overall on May 5, 1997.

"Obviously, I had a great experience at Maryland, my home for 17 years," said Pearman, "but because it was my home for so long, I thought it might be time to step out.

"Professionally, it has been a tremendous asset for me to work with a coach like K.C. Jones," added Pearman. "Plus Hartford is known as the capital and media center of women's basketball. All of this I have found intriguing."

In 12 years on the Maryland staff, Pearman helped lead the Terrapins to on overall record of 227 wins and 129 losses for an outstanding winning percentage of .638. That included ACC titles in 1986, '88, and '89. That also included NCAA post-season tournament appearances in '86, '88, '89, '90, '91, '92, '93, and '97. Besides Tate, Pearman also coached such players as '88 and '92

Olympian and '89 ACC Player-of-the-Year Vicky Bullett, and ACC Rookies-of-the-Year Beth Hunt (in '87), Carla Holmes (in '88), and Bonnie Rimkus (in '89). She has also coached Edna Campbell and Jessie Hicks among others, as well as current Blizzard guard Limor Mizrachi (in '92).

As a player at Maryland, Pearman also achieved a great deal of success. From 1980 through '84, Boe was a four-year letterwinner and a three-year starter for the Terrapins.

In her freshman season in 1980-81, Boe led her squad to an ACC title, and to the quarterfinals of the AIAW tourney. In '81-'82, her Maryland team reached the very first NCAA Final Four, won an ACC title, and finished 25-7. In '82-'83, Maryland again won an ACC title and went on to compete in the NCAA tourney, finishing 26-5. And in her senior year, after being named captain, Pearman's team made the NCAA's again, and ended 19-10.

In her four years, Boe's Maryland squads competed in four national tournaments, won three ACC titles, and finished 89-31. Her teams never failed to be ranked in the Top 20 of the Associated Press poll each and every week.

Including her playing days, Pearman had been associated with 11 NCAA tournament teams and a total of 12 national post-season tourney teams while at Maryland. She had also been associated with six ACC Championship teams.

Upon completion of her playing career at Maryland, Pearman was named head coach of Regina High School in Hyattsville, Maryland. She led Regina to its best season ever in the Maryland Area Catholic League, defeating the league's number one-ranked team during that season.

Pearman graduated from Maryland in 1985 with her Bachelor of Science degree in recreation.

During her coaching career at Maryland, Pearman enjoyed recruiting success. She was responsible for recruiting the 1994 Maryland class, considered the 4th best in the nation. In addition to those honors already listed, she has been responsible for the recruitment of two players who have played for the U.S. Select Team, four who have played on the U.S. Junior National Team, and eight who have played in the U.S. Olympic Festival.

Prior to coming to Maryland, Pearman was an All-America selection at South Hagerstown High School, where she was named Co-Outstanding Player-of-the-Year for Washington County as a senior. That same year, she averaged 24 points and 17 rebounds.

HEAD ATHLETIC TRAINER

JEANNA Polonchek

Jeanna Polonchek was named the head athletic trainer for the New England Blizzard of the American Basketball League, widely considered the premier women's basketball league in the world, on August 5, 1997. She is beginning her second full year with the Blizzard.

Polonchek came to the Blizzard from Bridgewater State College, where she had been the head athletic trainer and a certified National Strength & Conditioning specialist for the previous seven years.

A candidate for an Ed.D in Education from Boston University, Polonchek, since 1990, had been the head athletic trainer at Bridgewater State, where she was responsible for all phases of injury care, prevention, and rehabilitation for 19 varsity and eight club sports.

Born in Boulder, Colorado, but currently living in Taunton, MA, Polonchek also owns a great deal of athletic training experience in the world of USA Basketball and Olympic sports. She has been an athletic trainer at two Olympiads - the Winter Games in Lillehammer, Norway in '94, and the Summer Games in Atlanta in '96.

Jeanna has also been the athletic trainer for the Jones Cup U.S. National Team that competed in Taiwan in '95; for the basketball teams that competed in the U.S. Olympic Festivals of Los Angeles in '91 and San Antonio in '93; and for the basketball teams that competed in the Pan Am Games of Indianapolis in '87.

She has also been a staff trainer at numerous other events - including the Boston Marathon (every year since 1989) and the Bay State Games (every year since 1989), just to name a very few.

Jeanna received her Bachelor of Science degree (with honors) in December, '83 from Indiana University. She majored in health and safety, while minoring in biology. She then went on to receive her Masters degree (with honors) in August, 1984 from Syracuse University in New York - in Professional Physical Education, Athletic Training.

Jeanna's dad, John, had been an assistant coach with five different pro football teams for more than 20 years before retiring in '97.

THE Outlook

BLIZZARD Outlook

There are many changes in New England where the Blizzard hopes to be playoff-bound for the second straight season. Last year the Blizzard rode the coaching of K.C. Jones and Boe Pearman as well as the stellar backcourt play of All-Stars Carolyn (Jones) Young and Jennifer Rizzotti into a winning record (24-20) and a No. 4 seed (of 6) in the playoffs, only to be quickly dismissed in two games by the San Jose Lasers.

So, what's new with the Blizzard? How about this. Four new players, a minimum of two new starters, a promoted coach, just one home venue, a new training facility, and a new general manager.

The four new players include 6-4 All-Star forward Stacey Lovelace, who came over from the disbanded Long Beach StingRays, and '98 draftees 6-3 center/forward Barbara Farris, who was second in the NCAA Division I last year in field goal percentage at .714 while at Tulane, 6-2 forward Barbara Bolden, and 5-7 point-guard Limor Mizrachi, a three-time MVP of the Israeli League.

The staff has a new look at the top as Chris Sienko has replaced new ABL VP for Sales Pam Batalis as general manager. In addition, Pearman has been elevated from assistant to associate head coach. The Blizzard also announced last April that it was now playing all 22 home games at the Hartford Civic Center, reluctantly leaving behind one of its two homes for the past two years, Springfield. And there is the new training site at Trinity College in Hartford.

Other changes? Starters Shanda Berry (retired) and Karen Deden (unprotected) are gone. And guards E.C. Hill and Deanna Tate are now members of the new Chicago Condors.

Some things, however, may remain the same. Three players who started all 46 games in '97-'98 return, including the 5-5 Rizzotti (10.8 ppg, 4.3 assists) , the 5-9 Young (who was married last summer, thus the new last name), and 6-1 forward Dale Hodges (9.0 ppg, team-leading 6.8 rebs.). Young, First Team All-ABL, was the ABL's second-leading scorer (21.9 ppg) last season after leading the entire league the first year (21.2 ppg).

The three other returnees include the league's tallest player, 6-7 center Kara Wolters (9.8 ppg, 5.2 rebs.), 6-1 forward Jannon Roland (2.0, 0.5), and 6-0 forward Carla Berube (2.7, 1.3). Wolters, who started 19 games last year as a rookie and led the league in blocked shots (ABL record 64), is expected to make more of an impact this season.

Here's a closer look position-by-position:

CENTERS

There are two players who can play the center position on the squad - both very talented, but both very young. They include the 6-7 Wolters and the 6-3 Farris. Wolters started 19 games last season, her ABL rookie year, and is slotted to start in the 1998-99 season, although there is a question mark regarding her left shoulder as the season is slated to get underway.

Wolters, who was one of six "core players" on last summer's World Championship gold medal-winning U.S. National Team, underwent elective shoulder surgery to tighten some ligaments last July. She will likely miss all three Blizzard exhibition games in October, but is scheduled to return just as the regular season begins. Besides leading the league in blocked shots (1.5 pg), she was fourth in field goal percentage (.535).

Farris, at 22 the youngest member of the Blizzard 10-player squad, is a year younger than Wolters. But Farris made a strong impression on the Blizzard coaching staff during the ABL combine last April - especially her ability to get up-and-down the court. As a result, K.C. Jones made her his first-round pick in the ABL draft last May 5. She was the third pick of the draft overall. Her four-year career field goal percentage at Tulane was an extremely impressive .637.

FORWARDS

This is the position of plenty on the Blizzard. A total of six of the 10 players on the roster can play either the small forward or power forward positions. In fact, five of the six can play both positions.

Of the six, only Farris (see above) is considered a true post. It is very possible that Farris and Wolters could be in the line-up at the same time, giving the Blizzard a formidable rebounding 1-2 punch.

How this group will mesh is anyone's guess, but it will be fun watching practice to see who emerges.

The group includes the 6-1 Dale Hodges, last year's leading rebounder (6.8 pg) and fourth-leading scorer (9.0 ppg). A fan favorite, Hodges played both the "3" and "4" positions last year, starting all 46 games the team played. She is an artist at collecting "garbage" points.

Farris could start. And Hodges could very well start again, but others may say "not so fast." Chief among those is the 6-4 Stacey Lovelace, an ABL All-Star last season who averaged 14.0 ppg and 5.4 rpg for the Atlanta Glory. After the Glory was disbanded, Lovelace was assigned to the Nashville Noise. But shortly thereafter, she was traded to the Long Beach StingRays for '96 U.S. Olympian Venus Lacy. Then when the StingRays were disbanded last August, Lovelace was assigned to play for the Blizzard.

Lovelace is an extremely talented player who played more at small forward last season for the Glory than she did the power forward.

The remaining three forwards all have similar versatility. They include 6-1 Jannon Roland, 6-0 Carla Berube, and 6-2 Barbara Bolden.

Roland (2.0 ppg, 0.5 rpg) was one of six Blizzard players protected by the team last April. The coaches feel there is great potential there. She can shoot the "three" as well as any of the Blizzard forwards, and has had a productive off-season.

Berube, one of three UConn players on the roster for the second straight year, is looking much stronger following her summer of '98. Carla (2.7 ppg, 1.3 rpg) had moments of brilliance in spurts last season , and is looking to increase those moments this season. Better three-point shooting is one way for that to occur.

Then there is Bolden. Labelled somewhat of a mystery entering training camp, Bolden made her impression on head coach K.C. Jones via tapes and positive recommendations. Bolden played in Italy last season, where she averaged 18 points and 10 rebounds per game. As a result, she was taken in the supplemental round of the ABL draft last May (51st player chosen). Her athleticism is her strong suit.

GUARDS

Entering training camp, the Blizzard will have three extremely capable guards in camp. With that comes good news and comes, shall we say, scary news. The good news is that all three are extremely capable. The scary news is that there are only three.

Let's start off with Carolyn Young (formerly Jones), who last season averaged 21.87 points per game, just losing out to the Portland Power's Natalie Williams (21.91 ppg) for the ABL scoring crown. Young wound up as an ABL All-Star for the second straight year, was named First Team All-ABL, and finished third in the MVP voting. Young is the ABL's all-time leading scorer with 1,810 career points, and has started 84 of the 86 games the Blizzard has ever played (illness caused her to miss two starts her first season).

If Young is considered the Blizzard's finest player, then Jennifer Rizzotti is considered the team's heart-and-soul. Rizzotti averaged a better-than-expected 10.8 points per game last season, along with 4.4 assists per game. She has started all 86 games in Blizzard history, and leads the team in such intangibles as charges-taken, stitches (she's had 11 in three separate incidents in two years), and floor burns. It's possible she may not be required to score as much this season, if all goes well.

Finally, the team has added 5-7 Limor Mizrachi, considered Israel's best player for the past decade. A three-time Israeli League MVP, Mizrachi was chosen by the Blizzard in the fifth round of last May's ABL draft. Considered an excellent three-point shooter, Limor was not an unknown quantity to the Blizzard. She played one season at Maryland (1991-92) when associate head coach Boe Pearman was an assistant for the Terrapins. Maryland was ranked No. 1 for several weeks that season. Mizrachi can play either the "1" or the "2" positions, as can Rizzotti. It is possible that the Blizzard could play a three-guard line-up at times this season, much as they did with Young, Rizzotti, and Deanna Tate last campaign.

SUMMARY

During the off-season, pundits predicted the Blizzard to finish in the lower echelons of the Eastern Conference, but the Blizzard is quietly confident that it can contend. The goals will be to improve upon its 24-20 record and to go further than its disappointing first-round playoff loss last season. It may be too much to ask that the Blizzard go through the season as healthy as it did last year, when it lost zero games to injury. But Hall of Famer K.C. Jones promises a team that will run, run, run - much as his great Celtic championship teams did during the '60's. Stay tuned.

CARLA Berube

#31 6-0 FORWARD

UCONN '97 Oxford, Massachusetts

Carla Berube proved to be a very steady player during the 1997-98 season for the New England Blizzard, her first in the pros, although she didn't receive an abundance of playing time...A fan favorite, especially in Connecticut, Carla, after all was said and done, played in 35 of 44 total regular season games...In two games early in the season, she was ill and did not even dress for the game...In two other games, although she dressed, she was ill enough not to see any action...Carla played 311 minutes --an average of 8.9 minutes in 35 games...Overall, Carla averaged 2.7 points and 1.3 rebounds...She shot .468 from the field and .826 from the free throw line...Time and time again, Carla would come in off the bench, sometimes having not played three quarters of the game, and would get fouled on a play and stick two free throws...Not an easy thing to do...Twice on the season, Berube scored in double figures -- including a season-high 13 in Game #9 versus Long Beach, and 11 more in game #19 at Portland...She scored eight more twice...Berube had a high of six rebounds in a win at Portland in game #30.

Carla must be considered one of the state of Connecticut's best-known players ever --either male or female...A 6-0 forward, she hails from the state of Massachusetts -- from a little town called Oxford, which is not too far from the Connecticut border...Carla went to the University of Connecticut, where she had phenomenal success as an individual and as a member of her team for four years (1993-97)...She was a tri-captain of her team as a senior in 1996-97, when she was named to the Big East All-Tournament team...That same year, she was also named "Most Outstanding Player" at the Hartford Courant Connecticut Classic...She averaged 11.4 points, 5.4 rebounds, and 3.1 assists as a senior...She shot 56.8% from the floor, an excellent figure for a wing player --the 6th best single-season field goal percentage in Husky history...In her last 12 games as a senior, in fact, she shot 62.6% (62-of-99)...She also had a 2-1 assist to turnover ratio...She scored in double figures 20 times.

Carla was chosen in the third round of the second annual ABL draft on May 5, 1997...She was the 21st player chosen in that draft.

Carla's UConn teams were very successful...In her four years in Storrs, UConn won 132 games, and lost only eight -- a winning percentage of 94.3%...Her high school team, Oxford High, had a much better winning percentage...In her three years at Oxford, her teams finished with 73 wins and only one loss -- a winning percentage of 98.6%...She won two Massachusetts state titles in high school, and one NCAA title in college...As a freshman in college, Carla was named NCAA East Regional All-Tourney...In her career, she finished #12 on the UConn all-time scoring list with 1,381 points...But she finished #1 in UConn history in "games played" with 138...She started 81 of those games...As a junior, she was named UConn's Unsung Hero...

In all-time NCAA play (19 games), she averaged 10.0 points, 5.2 rebounds, and 3.1 assists in 28.6 minutes of action...She ended her collegiate career by scoring in double figures in her last 81 consecutive games.

Carla is now the subject of a mural on the G. Fox Building in Hartford, along with longtime teammate Kara Wolters, which can be seen on Rt. 91 going south, and alongside Rt. 84 going East and West...The mural is five stories high, 18,000 square feet (the basketball in her hand is six feet in diameter), and it took 210 gallons of paint to complete.

Personal: Born September 2, 1975 in Worcester, MA...She was named the Massachusetts State Female Basketball Player of the Year as a senior at Oxford High, when she averaged 24 points and 15 rebounds...She was a two-time AAU All-American as well.

DALE Hodges

#4 6-1 FORWARD

St. Joseph's '90 Trenton, NJ

- Blizzard's leading rebounder in '97-98 (6.8 pg)
- Kodak First Team All-American at St. Joseph's in 1990
- Atlantic-10 Player of the Year twice at St. Joseph's
- Big Five Player of the Year twice at St. Joseph's

Entering her second year with the Blizzard, Dale Hodges was the Blizzard's leading rebounder all year long in '97-'98...She ultimately wound up with an average of 6.8 rebounds per game, 1.6 better than Kara Wolters, the team's second-leading rebounder...Hodges' figure of 6.8 was 11th best in the ABL...She was also tied for 14th in free throw percentage at .821...Dale shot consistently well above 80 percent from the charity stripe all season long...Dale seemed to come on offensively late in the campaign...She averaged 9.0 points overall, but averaged 14.8 ppg in the last four games...In the last six games, she averaged exactly nine rebounds...She shot .495 from the field, but in the last four games, she shot a remarkable .625 (25-of-40) from the floor...Hodges led the Blizzard in scoring only twice all season, although once was in the 74-70 OT victory at San Jose when she tallied an ABL career-high 23...That included a 6-for-6 performance from the free throw line in overtime...Hodges led the Blizzard in rebounding 23 times (in 44 regular-season games) ...That included a high of 13 rebounds three times (twice versus San Jose)...She scored in double figures 19 times, including 15 times in the last 26 games...She rebounded in double figures nine times...Overall, she had six double-doubles...Dale drives to the hoop very well...Late during last season, she was hitting the jumper from as far away as 17 feet -- keeping the defense honest.

On May 5, 1997, the Blizzard drafted Dale Hodges in the first round of the second annual ABL draft...In fact, the Blizzard traded up with Columbus in order to insure that it would get the 6-1 forward...She was drafted to play a "3" position, although she wound up playing as much of the "4" as she did the "3"...On the same day that she was drafted, this former Kodak First Team

All-American was named to compete for the U.S. National Team at the World Championship Qualifying Games which were played in Brazil in August (the U.S. Team won the silver medal)...In five games, Hodges took only 11 shots, but made 10 of them in that tourney.

From 1990-92, Dale played in Italy for Busto-Arsizio, averaging 25.5 points and 8.5 rebounds...In 1990-91, she averaged 27.5 points...In Japan in 1993, she averaged 15 points and 8 rebounds... In France in 1994, she averaged 15 points and 9 rebounds...At St. Joseph's in 1990, as a senior, she was named the Atlantic-10 Player of the Year...She was inducted into the St. Joseph's Hall of Fame in 1996...In '88, she was a member of the U.S. Team that traveled to Taiwan for the Jones Cup (silver medal), and in '92, she played in the World University Games that won a gold.

Dale has also been a coach --as an assistant at Drexel in 1994-95, and for half a season at UMass in 1995-96...At St.Joseph's, she was a Kodak All-America and an Atlanta Tip-Off First Team All-America...She was Atlantic-10 Player of the Week seven times as a senior, 15 times for her career...She was Atlantic-10 Player of the Year twice, and Big Five Player of the Year twice (both as a junior and senior)...As a senior, she averaged 27.6 points (3rd nationally), and 12.0 rebounds (13th nationally)...That same year, she scored 43 points in a 67-52 win over Temple...She scored 2,077 points and pulled down 1,049 rebounds in only three years at St. Joseph's...She shot .516 as a senior from the field, .793 from the line.

Personal: Born January 21, 1968 in Trenton, NJ...She is the 7th of eight children, with three brothers and four sisters...She likes to read, work out, and loves music of all types.

STACEY Lovelace

#32 6-4 FORWARD

Purdue '96 Detroit, MI

Stacey Lovelace is entering her third year in the ABL, but her first with the Blizzard...For the past two years, the Detroit native has played with the Atlanta Glory...Last season, Stacey was the Glory's second-leading scorer (14.0 ppg), third-leading rebounder (5.4 pg), and third-leading shot blocker (35 total)...And, as a result, she was named an alternate to the 10-person ABL Eastern Conference All-Star Team...But when Glory teammate Katrina McClain couldn't play due to injury, Lovelace became a legitimate All-Star, scoring seven points in the'98 game played in Orlando, Florida.

Stacey took a circuitous route reaching the Blizzard...She was a part of four different ABL teams in about a five-month period... After the Glory disbanded in April of 1998, Stacey was immediately assigned to one of the new expansion teams, the Nashville Noise...About one week later, she was traded, even up, to the Long Beach StingRays for 1996 U.S. Olympian and Chattanooga-native Venus Lacy...Then, on August 26, the StingRays were disbanded, and Stacey was assigned to the Blizzard.

Lovelace has enjoyed two fine years in the ABL...She is the league's third all-time leading shot blocker (87)...She is 13th in scoring (1,119 points), and 12th in rebounding (472).

A year ago with the Glory, Stacey played in all 44 games, starting 41, and averaged 30 minutes per game...She led the team, which included Teresa Edwards, in scoring 10 times...She scored in double figures 33 times...On Dec. 8, 1997, Stacey was named ABL Player of the Week...She played the "3" position last year more often than not, a position she may be asked to play a lot with the Blizzard.

In her first year with the Glory, Stacey was the youngest player in the league...That season she finished as the Glory's second-leading scorer (12.9 ppg) and second-leading rebounder (6.1 pg)...She shot a more-than-respectable .533 from the field, fifth-best in the ABL...Her 52 blocks tied for second in the league...Her ABL career high in points is 27 twice — vs. Columbus (2-19-97) and vs. Richmond (12-1-97)...In rebounds, her career high is 12 (at Seattle (1/2/98).

Originally, Lovelace was a fourth-round selection of the Glory in the first ABL Draft in June, 1996...She was one of the most productive players in Big Ten Conference history while at Purdue...In her junior year, she was named a Kodak First Team All-America and Big Ten MVP...All four of her seasons were spent under the watchful eye of head coach Lin Dunn, now the head coach of the ABL's Portland Power...During her sophomore year, the team reached the Women's Final Four in Richmond (losing in the national semis).

As a senior, Lovelace was chosen to the All-Big Ten First Team, and was named Big Ten All-Tournament, and honorable mention AP All-American...She averaged 15.5 points, 8.8 rebounds, and had seven 20-point games...As a junior, she was the only unanimous All-Big Ten selection, averaging a team-high 14.2 points and 8.1 rebounds...Her 81 blocked shots that season remains a school record...She holds Boilermaker career records for rebounds, blocked shots, and double-doubles (27)...Her career highs were 32 points at Northwestern (1-29-95) and 16 rebounds vs. Penn State (3-4-96).

As a sophomore, Lovelace was honorable mention All-Big Ten, averaging 11.4 points and 7.4 rebounds. As a freshman in'93, she was a member of SportsChannel's Big Ten All-Freshman Team.

As far as international experience is concerned, Lovelace played for the bronze medal-winning U.S. Team at the'95 Jones Cup in Taiwan, earning All-Tournament honors as the team's leading scorer (14.9 ppg) and rebounder (7.1 pg)...In'94, she was a member of the gold medal-winning South Team at the U.S. Olympic Festival, where she was an All-Tournament pick.

Personal: Born December 5, 1974...Graduated from Purdue with a degree in organizational leadership and supervision...Plans on attending law school once her playing days are over...An All-State of Michigan selection as a senior at St. Martin de Porres High in Detroit.

1989-90	Played for Bnai Yehoda - Winner Israelian Cup; Named "Discovery of the Decade"
1987-88	Voted MVP of European Championship Qualifying Team
1986-87	Voted MVP of the Hapoel Games

Drafted No. 47 (7th pick of the fifth and final round) of the1998 ABL draft (May 5)...A 5-7 point guard, Limor Mizrachi is considered the BEST PLAYER IN ISRAEL...She has been the captain and starting point guard of the Israeli National Team for each of the past EIGHT years (1990-91 thru 1997-98)...She was voted the "Discovery of the Decade" in Israel for both men and women in 1990...She has been named MVP of her Israeli League THREE TIMES in the 1990's - including the 1997-98 season...Overall, she has been a member of the Israeli National Team SINCE SHE WAS 15 YEARS OF AGE (the 1984-85 season)...Considered a very clever passer, she is known for her "no-look" passes and pushes the ball up the floor very well...She is also considered a very good three-point shooter (remember the international arc is at 20 feet 6 inches as opposed to the ABL/NCAA arc of 19 feet 9 inches)...Mizrachi is the first foreign-born player (of the 24 different players) to be drafted by the New England Blizzard in its first three drafts...Mizrachi played under current Blizzard associate coach Boe Pearman when Pearman was an assistant coach at the University of Maryland during the 1991-92 season... During that season Maryland was, at times, ranked #1 in the nation with Mizrachi as the team's point-guard...That year, Mizrachi led Maryland in assists (4.6 pg) and in free throw percentage (.824)...Limor still holds the Maryland single-season record for 3-point field goal percentage (.416)...Blizzard head coach K.C. Jones had since seen Mizrachi on tape several times, and was very impressed...He described her as "a very good 3-point shooter," and one who could "throw the long pass very well, penetrate very well, and see the open court"...In comparison to the Blizzard's back-up point-guard of last season, Deanna Tate, who also played at Maryland under Pearman (Tate and Mizrachi were never teammates), Jones said that while

Tate is quicker and a better defender, Mizrachi appears to be a better offensive player, penetrater, passer, and 3-point shooter... "I really like Limor," added Jones. "She has smarts. She can dribble between the legs, plus she has a hesitation move that may confuse defenders. She can fake the behind-the-back pass. And I feel she'll be able to run the pick-and-roll."... During the past two years, Limor has played for Eliztur Ramla of the Israeli League...This past year, Limor averaged 14 points and 5 assists, leading her team to the league title...She was also named the Israeli League MVP for the third time in the decade of the '90's...In 12 games in Ronchetti Cup play this past year, Mizrachi averaged 12.4 points, 3.8 rebounds, 4.0 assists, and 2.2 steals, while shooting 41.3 percent from behind the arc...In EuroLeague competition last year, she shot 45 percent from beyond the arc.

Personal: Born June 24, 1970...Weighs in at about 130 pounds...Was in the Israeli Army for two years where she was a weightlifting coach...Has two sisters, Sigi 31, and Inbar 27...Played in Buffalo at the World University Games...She has been back to the USA six times since her time at Maryland.

POINT GUARD

Jennifer Rizzotti

#21 5-5 POINT GUARD

UConn '96 New Fairfield, Connecticut

Blizzard Co-Captain
1996-97 ABL All-Star
1997-98 ABL All-Star
1997-98 All-ABL (honorable mention)
Two-time All-American at the Univ. of Connecticut
1996-97 Honda-Broderick Cup Winner (includes all collegiate sports)
1995-96 AP National Player of the Year
1995-96 CoSIDA Academic National Player of the Year

Jennifer Rizzotti is considered one of the toughest competitors in the ABL...The league's second smallest player at 5-5, Rizzotti continually must prove her worth in the best women's basketball professional league in the world...But for the second straight year, she has done so by being named an ABL All-Star...At regular season's end, Rizzotti averaged 10.8 points per game, an unexpectedly-high figure for a point-guard whose first priority is to find the "open man" in the offense...The first year, Jennifer averaged 7.9 points per contest, so the jump was significant...To observers close to the Blizzard scene, this was not as much of a surprise as it should have been when one considers that Jennifer set out to improve her offense the summer of '97...She hired both a strength coach and a shooting coach - and the work payed off...Once again, Rizzotti started every game the Blizzard played this past season (44)...In fact, she remains the only player to have started every game in Blizzard history (86)...Jennifer led the Blizzard in several categories this past season, including assists (193), assist average (4.4), steals (89), steals average (2.0), and three point field goals attempted (174)...She shot .420 overall, and .310 from three-point range...A total of 174 of her 352 field goal attempts came from 3-point range...She also shot .765 from the free throw line (127-of-166)...Both of those latter two figures were second on the team behind Carolyn (Jones) Young...Her 1445 minutes were also second on the team behind Young's 1588...She averaged 2.8 rebounds last season.

In 1996-97, besides her scoring average of 7.9 points, she also averaged 3.3 rebounds, 5.8

assists, and 2.2 steals...Her 5.8 assists were 5th high in the ABL...Her 2.2 steals were 7th high in the ABL... Under her direction, the Blizzard led the league in fg percentage (.475) that year by a wide margin.

Jennifer has won numerous awards during her career - including AP National Player of the Year in 1996 following her senior year at UConn...She also won the Honda-Broderick Award in Basketball in 1996-97, AND went on to win the Honda-Broderick Cup, beating out 10 other top collegians in their respective sports, in January of 1997...She helped lead UConn to two consecutive Women's Final Fours in '95 and '96 - winning the NCAA title in '95 following Final Four victories over Stanford and Tennessee...That UConn team finished a perfect 35-0...In '96, UConn fell to eventual national champion Tennessee in overtime in the Final Four semifinals...Jennifer, however, went on to earn First Team All-America honors from Kodak, AP, UPI, and USBWA...She also won the Francis Pomeroy Naismith Award as the nation's top player under 5-6...She won the prestigious Wade Trophy...She also was named winner of the GTE/CoSIDA Academic National Player of the Year, while winning an NCAA Post-Graduate Scholarship...She was named the ECAC Player of the Year and the Big East Player of the Year.

While at New Fairfield HS, Jennifer was named the Gatorade Connecticut State Player of the Year after averaging 23.7 ppg and 7.3 assists as a senior.

Personal: Born May 15, 1974 in White Plains, NY; at 5-5, she is the second shortest player in the ABL (behind only 5-3 point-guard Debbie Black of the Colorado Xplosion).

JANNON Roland

#42 6-1 FORWARD

Purdue '97 Urbana, Ohio

Jannon Roland came to the Blizzard via a trade on December 29, 1997... Jannon (pronounced juh-NAWN) came to the Blizzard from the Columbus Quest...In return, the Quest received 5-11 small forward Traci Thirdgill...When the trade was made, the Blizzard became younger and taller.

Roland, the 1996-97 Big Ten Player of the Year, wound up playing 12 games for the Blizzard, and was credited with only 90 minutes of action...But she started to come on during the last few games of the regular season, scoring 16 of her total 24 Blizzard points in the last four games...Jannon averaged 2.0 points and 0.5 rebounds per game in those 12 games overall...She had appeared in 23 games previously for the Quest...Roland scored as many as six points twice for the Blizzard, including once in her very first game as a member of the Blizzard, which ironically came against the Quest...That was in game #27...She also had six points in the next-to-last game of the regular season versus Long Beach at home in Hartford...Jannon shot .348 (8-of-23) from the floor, .500 (3-of-6) from 3-point land, and .833 (5-of-6) from the line.

In the two-game playoff series versus San Jose, Roland played 27 minutes, and was 3-of-6 from the field, 1-of-2 from beyond the arc, and 2-of-2 from the charity stripe.

Roland was originally drafted as a territorial pick (27th player overall) in the third round of the second annual ABL draft on May 5, 1997 by the Columbus Quest...She is a native of Urbana, Ohio.

Considered a very good offensive talent especially, Roland averaged 18.9 points and 7.2 rebounds as a senior at Purdue when she was named Big Ten Player of the Year (as selected by the conference coaches)...During her senior year, she shot .461 from the field (183-of-397), .333 from 3-point range (26-of-78), and .792 from the free throw line (137-of-173)...In Big Ten games only, she averaged 20.4 points per game, which tied her with her former Columbus Quest teammate Angie Potthoff of Penn State.

Roland started her last 91 games at Purdue, including all 32 games the Boilermakers played her sophomore year, all 31 her junior year, and all 28 her senior season. She played 32 games as a freshman, when she was named Purdue's Most Improved Player. In all, she played 123 games at Purdue... While at Purdue, Roland played small forward her first three seasons, then played the post as a senior...She once scored 37 points in a game played at Ohio State (1/23/97)...Her career highs in rebounds were 15 versus Notre Dame (12/5/96), in assists were 9 versus Toledo (12/21/96), and in steals were 6 versus Wisconsin (2/16/97)...In 1996-97, Roland was First Team All-Big Ten...In 1995-96, as a junior, she was named Second Team All-Big Ten by the conference coaches...She was also named Big Ten All-Tournament...For that season, she averaged 13.6 points, and shot .381 from 3-point range...In the 1994-95 season, in her crowning moment individually as a collegian, Roland drained a three-pointer at the buzzer in the NCAA West Regionals at UCLA to stun Vanderbilt, 67-66...She averaged 12.1 points and 4.8 rebounds as a sophomore that season.

While at Urbana High School in Ohio, Jannon averaged 26.5 points and 8.5 rebounds as a senior in 1992-93...She remains her school's all-time leading scorer (2,421 points) and helped her team to two straight Division II state titles in Ohio as a junior and senior...As a senior, she was Ohio's Division II Player of the Year.

Roland has been a member of several U.S. National Teams. In 1993, she was a member of the bronze medal-winning U.S. Olympic Festival North Team...In '95 and '97, she competed for the United States at the Jones Cup Tourneys in Taiwan...The U.S. won the bronze medal in '95, and the silver in '97.

Personal: Born February 3, 1975...Her full name is Alma Jannon Roland.

CENTER

KARA Wolters

#52 6-7 CENTER

UConn '97 Holliston, MA

Kara Wolters is entering her second year as a member of the New England Blizzard...She is a player who became much better and stronger as the season progressed last season...At 6-7, the tallest player on the team and in the league (both last year and this), Kara wound up averaging 9.8 points (third high on the team), and 5.2 rebounds (second high on the team, and 16th in the league) in her first season...She also averaged 1.5 blocked shots - LEADING THE ABL in that category...Her 64 blocks have become the new league standard, breaking the 58 blocks of the Portland Power's Natalie Williams, in 1996-97.

In her first season, Kara shot .535 from the floor, best on the team and FOURTH BEST IN THE LEAGUE...She shot .679 from the free throw line...She shot 50% or better from the floor 29 times...In her last three games, she shot .696 from the floor (16-of-23).

Wolters played in all 44 games, starting 19 of them...Most of those 19 starts came early...In fact, the first game she started was game #4, and the last was game #23 in the 44-game season...Kara also played 861 minutes, 5th most on the team.

Head coach K.C. Jones kept working on Kara's low post defense throughout the entire season...In the latter stages, he felt there was real improvement.

Wolters led the team in scoring three times last season...She led the team in rebounding 10 times...She had a team-high seven double-doubles on the season, five of which came against the Philadelphia Rage.

Wolters is a 1997 graduate of the University of Connecticut where she played all four years, helping lead the Huskies to two Women's Final Fours as a sophomore and junior. In her sophomore year in 1995-96, the Huskies won the NCAA title finishing a perfect 35-0...As a junior, she helped lead her team to the NCAA semifinals before losing an overtime game to the University of Tennessee Lady Vols...She teamed with current Blizzard teammates Jennifer Rizzotti for three seasons and Carla Berube for four seasons.

In a very rare feat, Kara was named NCAA Regional All-Tournament all four years (East '94, East '95, Mideast '96, and Midwest '97).

As a senior at UConn, she was named the AP National Player of the Year...She was also named First Team Kodak All-America, ECAC Player of the Year, and Big East Player of the Year...She averaged 17 points, 8 rebounds, and 2.82 blocked shots...She also shot .623 (9th best in the NCAA that season)...That summer, she was named an alternate to the U.S. Olympic Team.

The past three summers, Kara has been part of USA National Teams that have won gold medals...In order, they were in the Jones Cup in Taiwan in 1996, at the World University Games in Sicily in 1997, and at the World Championship Games in Berlin in June of 1998.

Personal: Born August 15, 1975 in Natick, Massachusetts...She was a Nike and Converse All-American at Holliston High School in Holliston, Mass., where she averaged 27 points and 15 rebounds as a senior...She finished with 1,996 points, 1,200 rebounds, and 622 blocks in her high school career...She, and teammate Carla Berube, are the subject of an 18,000 square-foot mural, sponsored by Reebok, on the side of the old G. Fox Building in Hartford...The mural can be seen quite clearly when traveling along Interstate Routes 84 and 91 which dissect Hartford.

1990-91	Two-time All-American at Auburn University
1990-91	Two-time SEC MVP

Carolyn (Jones) Young led the ABL is scoring in the league's inaugural season of 1996-97, doing so with a scoring average of 21.2 points per game...The 1992 U.S. Olympian tallied a grand total of 847 points in 40 games played, just five more points than Atlanta Glory guard Teresa Edwards, who averaged 21.1 points overall...In her first season, Jones was named an ABL All-Star, and later was named a Second Team All-ABL performer in voting by season's end...In her second season, Young took right up where she left off...Once again, she was named an ABL All-Star...She led the Blizzard in scoring once again - with a final average of 21.88 ppg, just 3/100ths of a point behind new ABL Scoring Champion Natalie Williams of the Portland Power (21.91)...C.J. started all 44 games the Blizzard played, leading the team to a 24-20 overall record, a significant improvement from last year...She also led the team in many other categories, including minutes played (1588), field goals made (296), field goals attempted (631), three-point field goals made (65), three-point percentage (.411, of those with more than 10 attempts), free throws made (306), free throws attempted (357), free throw percentage (.857), and points (963)...She has now totaled 1,810 career points in the ABL, No. 1 all-time in league history ...Carolyn led the Blizzard in scoring 35 times in 44 games in '97-'98... That includes a high of 35 points in a game versus the Philadelphia Rage on Saturday, Jan. 24 in Springfield - during an 88-77 victory...She also scored 32 points twice — in a game played at San Jose on December 9 (a 90-86 OT loss), and in a game played in Hartford versus Colorado on January 3...In the latter game, she established ABL single-game records for most free throws made (19) and attempted (20)...She scored 30 points or more last year seven times...In her ABL career, she has scored 30 points or more in games on 11 occasions...That included a high of 38 in a game played versus Seattle her first season (Feb. 15, 1997)...The 38 points scored remains a Blizzard franchise record...In other statistics, Jones averaged 3.9 rebounds, 2.2 assists, and 1.8 steals in '97-'98...CJ SMASHED THE ABL RECORD FOR MOST FREE THROWS MADE IN A SEASON...SHE HAD 306 IN '97-'98, BREAKING HER OWN OLD MARK OF 215 SET IN '96-'97...SHE ALSO HAD 357 FREE THROWS ATTEMPTED IN '97-'98, BREAKING THE SEATTLE REIGN'S CINDY BROWN'S OLD ABL RECORD OF 261 SET IN '97-'98.

A 1991 graduate of Auburn University in Alabama, then-Carolyn Jones was considered a steal as a fifth-round pick in the first ABL draft in June, 1996...She was named MVP of the exceptionally-tough Southeastern Conference in back-to-back years (in '90 and '91) - one of only two players in SEC history to be so honored...Named an All-American twice at Auburn, C.J. was also named First Team All-SEC three times in her career...As a senior and team captain in 1991, she averaged 20.5 ppg overall, but in SEC games only, she averaged 23.6 ppg...Auburn played in three consecutive NCAA Championship games ('88, '89, '90), with C.J. playing in the final two.

As Carolyn Jones, C.J. was a '92 U.S. Olympian, winning a bronze medal in Barcelona...She also played on the U.S. National Teams at the '90 World Championship Games, the '90 Goodwill Games, and the '91 World University Games - winning gold medals in all three of those competitions.

She played two years overseas in Italy, where she was twice named MVP of the Italian League All-Star Game. She was named ABL Player of the Week twice in '96-'97, and twice in '97-'98.. Birthdate: July 28, 1969, born in Bay Springs, MS...She is one of 10 children...Married to Charlton Young in Soso, Mississippi this past August 8.

The Media

BLIZZARD RADIO AND TELEVISION

TELEVISION:

The American Basketball League is pleased to showcase the talent of its players via the Fox Sports Network for the 1998-99 season — its second straight year on FSN. The package this year is for 10 regular season games, plus additional playoff games. Included within this package are games that will be televised on Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day, and New Year's Day, as well as the ABL All-Star Game January 24 from San Jose.

The ABL is also very excited to be partnered with a network — CBS — for the first time. CBS will televise two games within the ABL Final playoff series in April.

The Blizzard will be televised twice within the Fox Sports Net package. Those games include the ABL opener November 5, plus a game on Christmas Day.

Here is the Fox Sports Net line-up (all times Eastern):

Thurs., Nov. 5	Philadelphia at New England	8 pm
Fri., Dec. 25	New England at Nashville	4 pm

Here is the rest of the Fox Sports Net schedule:

Thurs., Nov. 26	Columbus at Philadelphia	2 pm
Sun., Dec. 13	Chicago at Columbus	4 pm
Sun., Dec. 20	Portland at San Jose	4 pm
Sun., Dec. 27	Colorado at Portland	4 pm
Fri., Jan. 1	Nashville at Chicago	4 pm
Sun., Jan. 24	ABL ALL-STAR GAME AT SAN JOSE	7 pm
Sun., Jan. 31	Seattle at Portland	1 pm
Sun., Feb. 14	Philadelphia at Colorado	4 pm
Thurs., Mar. 25	Seattle at San Jose	8 pm

In addition, the Blizzard is pleased to once again be partnered with WFSB-TV (Channel 3) in Hartford. WFSB-TV can be seen on many cable systems in Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island. This season, the package jumps from three regular-season games to five, plus at least one playoff game, plus an option for further playoff games.

Here are the five regular-season Blizzard games to be televised, all from the Hartford Civic Center:

Thurs., Dec. 17	Seattle at New England	7 pm
Sat., Jan. 2	Colorado at New England	7:30 pm
Thurs., Jan. 21	Columbus at New England	7 pm
Thurs., Feb. 18	Colorado at New England	7 pm
Thurs., Mar. 4	Nashville at New England	7 pm

RADIO: WDRC AM 1360

For the third straight year, the New England Blizzard will be broadcast via WDRC-Radio (1360-AM) in Hartford. WDRC will serve as the flagship station for the Blizzard radio network that will include at least three other sister stations, all in Connecticut. Those stations are: WWCO (1240-AM) in Waterbury, WSNG (610-AM) in Torrington, and WMMW (1290-AM) in Meriden.

The Blizzard radio network will broadcast all 44 games LIVE and will continue into the post-season. Pre-game will begin 30 minutes prior to gametime.

For the third straight year, the play-by-play and color commentator teams will remain intact. Dan Lovallo will handle the play-by-play for all games. Gail Marquis will handle color commentary at home, while Steve Raczynski will handle those duties on the road.

DAN LOVALLO:
From Torrington, CT, Dan brings years of insight and experience in professional sports broadcasting to the Blizzard Radio Network. Play-by-play is a natural for Dan, his radio career spanning over 20 years. Prior to becoming the voice of the Blizzard, Dan was play-by-play man for the Connecticut Pride of the CBA and the New Haven Ravens, the Double A affiliate of the Colorado Rockies. Many know Dan as the Sports Director for WDRC-AM and can hear him weekday mornings on the air with Brad Davis. Dan is a graduate of the University of Connecticut.

GAIL MARQUIS:
Gail comes to the Blizzard as president of her own firm. No stranger to basketball, Gail has competed on all levels including two US National Teams (winning the Silver Medal in the 1976 Olympics in Montreal), three years professionally in Europe and two years in the WBL (Women's Professional Basketball League). A registered referee, Gail also coached at the instructional level. Gail lives in Jersey City, New Jersey.

STEVE RACZYNSKI:
Steve will take to the air for all road games for the second time this season. Steve is the Director of Media Relations for the Blizzard. Prior to the Blizzard, Steve was the Sports Information Director at Stanford for 14 years, in which time Stanford won a combined 42 NCAA titles. As SID, Steve worked directly for Tara VanDerveer, the 1996 U.S. Olympic coach. Steve also acted as color commentator for the Stanford men's and women's basketball programs for five years. Steve makes his home in Enfield, Connecticut.

BLIZZARD MEDIA POLICY

MEDIA CREDENTIAL PROCEDURES

After splitting its home games between Hartford and Springfield each of its first two years, the New England Blizzard will play all 22 of its home games at the Hartford Civic Center this season. Media desiring to attend games are asked to send a request via fax on their letterhead describing their request for either single games or season passes. Please fax to Steve Raczynski, Director of Media Relations, at (860) 527-1337. The phone number to reach Raczynski is (860) 522-4667 (Ext.109).

Credentials can be picked up at the New England Blizzard office at 179 Allyn St., Suite 403, Hartford, CT 06103, or can be picked up at press will call at either arena.

PRESS PARKING

Sorry, but unavailable.

CREDENTIAL WILL-CALL PICK-UP

At the Hartford Civic Center - please go to the Civic Center Mall. Find the Box Office on Level I or the Ground Floor. To the left of the Box Office, please find a Tobacconist Shop. Immediately to the right of the Tobacconist Shop, please find a Security Door. Enter that door, walk down a short corridor, go to the right at the end of that corridor, and find a Blizzard staffer sitting at a table with credentials. Walk through the adjoining door to the Concourse, and walk down any stairwell to the arena floor level.

MEDIA ROOM

The Hartford Civic Center's media room is known as the Lee-McGinley Room. There are eight phones (credit card or collect only), plus one pay phone (860-728-8733) available.

The press row phone number is:
(860) 723-0623.

FOOD

The Lee-McGinley Room includes food, soft drinks, and coffee at least 1½ hours before gametime.

STATISTICS

Available at the end of each quarter, including halftime and game's end.

INTERNET

The media is encouraged to visit the ABL website at www.abl.com and the Blizzard website at www.neblizzard.com.

BLIZZARD PRACTICE FACILITY

PRACTICE FACILITY

Unless otherwise indicated, Blizzard practice sessions will be open to the media and to the public, according to head coach K.C. Jones. It is possible, however, that a practice session or a portion of practice may be closed to the media and public. It is strongly recommended that if a member of the media wishes to attend a practice session that he or she call at least one day ahead in order to confirm practice time and player and coach availability. Please call Steve Raczynski, Director of Media Relations, at (860) 522-4667 (Ext. 109).

PLAYER AND COACH AVAILABILITY

The best way to catch a Blizzard player or coach is right after practice. Otherwise, please contact Director of Media Relations Steve Raczynski for a time and date mutually beneficial to both that player/coach and to that member of the media requesting the interview. Please see above number.

On the day of a game, players and coaches will be available for pre-game interviews up to 60 minutes before game time. Players and coaches will conduct post-game interviews in a designated interview area within 10 minutes after game's end. The visiting and home coaches will automatically be brought to the interview room at the end of the game. In addition, the media relations department at each site will bring out those visiting and home players requested by the media.

PRACTICE LOCATION

After two years practicing at Western New England College in Springfield, MA, the Blizzard now calls the George Ferris Athletic Center at Trinity College in Hartford its practice facility home. The Ferris Athletic Center contains two regulation-size basketball courts, an eight-lane swimming pool, nine international-size squash courts, and an expansive field house which contains an indoor track, three tennis courts, and space to accommodate practices for baseball, softball, and lacrosse. It also includes a Fitness Center (opened October, 1993) with free weights, nautilus equipment, and cardiovascular machines (including three treadmills, six stairmasters, six lifecycles, and two ergometers). The Ferris Center also includes other amenities such as locker rooms, conference rooms, and a training center.

Trinity College is located in central Hartford. The easiest access to the Ferris Athletic Center is off the Broad St. entrance to the Trinity campus. The Ferris Athletic Center is the first building on the right.

Members of the media are asked to check in at the front desk at the Ferris Athletic Center before entering the adjacent gymnasium.

OCTOBER 12 The Blizzard plays an intrasquad scrimmage at the O'Neill Center at Western Connecticut State College in Danbury. The White team defeated the Black, 66-65, in front of an estimated 750 people.

OCTOBER 15 The Blizzard announces a radio network, which includes originating station WDRC-Radio (1360-AM in Hartford), and WHYN-Radio (560-AM in Springfield), with all 40 games broadcast, both home and away - the only ABL team to broadcast all its games.

OCTOBER 18 The ABL season begins with the New England Blizzard winning the first ABL game ever played by a score of 100-73 over the Richmond Rage at the Hartford Civic Center - in front of an opening night crowd of 8,767 (that ABL record crowd lasted 36 days).

OCTOBER 25 The Blizzard loses its first game played in Springfield - 101-97 to Atlanta - in front of 5,381 at the Springfield Civic Center.

NOVEMBER 6, 1996 F Clarissa Davis-Wrightsil is placed on injured reserve following arthroscopic surgery to repair a lateral meniscus in her right knee (she missed 8 games).

NOVEMBER 11 Ass't Coach Bruce Honaski has brain surgery at Mercy Hospital in Springfield to remove a blood clot the size of a tennis ball.

NOVEMBER 12 Joy Muller named as interim ass't coach for an indefinite period.

NOVEMBER 13 G Lori Dillard signed as a one-week contracted replacement player.

NOVEMBER 15 Ass't Coach Bruce Honaski returns home.

NOVEMBER 16 C/F Monique Morehouse comes off injured reserve list (stress fractures).

NOVEMBER 20 G Latina Davis signed as a contracted replacement player for three weeks; G Lori Dillard released.

NOVEMBER 23 Blizzard sets ABL attendance record in Hartford - 10,477 - in a 77-72 loss to Columbus (also a New England women's basketball record, but since broken by UConn, also at the Hartford Civic Center).

NOVEMBER 25 Contracted replacement player F Carla Sterk released.

DECEMBER 3 F Clarissa Davis-Wrightsil comes off injured reserve list (right knee surgery).

DECEMBER 3 Three members of the Blizzard are named All-Stars - including G Carolyn Jones, G Jennifer Rizzotti, and F Clarissa Davis-Wrightsil.

DECEMBER 5 C/F Shanda Berry injures a hip late in game vs. San Jose; misses Dec. 8 game versus Columbus.

DECEMBER 8 G/F Charisse Sampson comes off injured reserve list (chronic knees).

DECEMBER 8 G Tracy Lis is involved in a car accident in her hometown of Danielson, CT the morning after a major snowstorm. She comes away uninjured, although the pick-up truck her father was driving was totalled. Father Wayne, suffers a broken rib.

DECEMBER 9 Two members of the Blizzard are named to compete in the Lady Footlocker 3-point shooting contest at Trinity College in Hartford Dec. 14. They are Clarissa Davis-Wrightsil and Jennifer Rizzotti.

DECEMBER 10 For the first time, the New England Blizzard is intact in terms of injured players; all 12 players on its roster are injury-free for a road game versus the Columbus Quest (97 days after the first day of practice Sept. 4).

DECEMBER 11 Contracted replacement player G Latina Davis released.

DECEMBER 14 Clarissa Davis-Wrightsil advances to the Final Four of the Lady Footlocker 3-point shooting contest.

DECEMBER 15 The New England Blizzard hosts inaugural ABL All-Star Game at the Hartford Civic Center - with the West defeating the East, 81-65. Clarissa Davis-Wrightsil finishes 4th in the Lady Footlocker 3-point shooting contest, earning $1500.

DECEMBER 16 F Clarissa Davis-Wrightsil suspended for one week (which proves to be two games), fined one week's pay, plus $1500 - for punching Cindy Brown of the Seattle Reign with 3:09 left in the All-Star Game.

DECEMBER 27 F Clarissa Davis-Wrightsil returns from her 2-game suspension - and for only the second time, the Blizzard roster is intact. All 11 players on its roster are injury-free and/or eligible to play, but Morehouse is ill.

DECEMBER 27 The Blizzard adds a third radio station - WSNG of Torrington, CT - to its network, adding a presence in Northwestern Connecticut.

DECEMBER 30 C/F Shanda Berry is named the ABL Player of the Week - a first for a New England Blizzard player (she scored 37 points and had 34 rebounds in two games - including a team-record 16 rebounds, then a team-record 18 rebounds).

1997

JANUARY 2 C/F Monique Morehouse dislocates her left index finger - and is destined to miss one month of action.

JANUARY 4 The Blizzard appears on the first BET-televised ABL game - New England at Columbus (the Quest wins, 94-74).

JANUARY 13 G Jennifer Rizzotti, who had already earned the Honda-Broderick Award as the best women's collegiate basketball player in 1995-96, receives the prestigious Honda-Broderick Cup - emblematic of the top female collegian in all sports for the 1995-96 season. She beats out 10 other Honda-Broderick Award winners of 10 other sports.

JANUARY 21 G Carolyn Jones is named the ABL Player of the Week - the second Blizzard player ever so named, and the second in a four-week period. She had 53 points in two upset wins over Columbus (75-73) and Richmond (90-86), the top two teams in the Eastern Conference, including a team-record 34 points against Richmond.

JANUARY 23 C/F Shanda Berry scores 37 points, and Carolyn Jones adds 35, in a 98-97 loss at Atlanta - thus becoming the first two Blizzard players to score 30 points or more in a single game.

JANUARY 25 The Blizzard plays in front of an ABL record crowd of 11,873 at the Hartford Civic Center, breaking the old ABL and Blizzard mark of 10,477 (Nov. 23). The Blizzard, however, falls to the Lasers, 85-76.

FEBRUARY 2 Ass't Coach Bruce Honaski sits on the bench for the first time since his brain surgery Nov. 11. He had attended his first practice since the surgery on Friday, Jan. 31.

FEBRUARY 2 After missing 13 games (2 to illness and 11 to injury), C/F Monique Morehouse returns from the injured reserve list to play against Atlanta.

FEBRUARY 2 In a dubious distinction, the Blizzard becomes the first ABL team to be eliminated from playoff contention, following its 86-79 loss to Atlanta in Springfield and combined with Richmond's 75-74 victory over Portland in Richmond. The Blizzard (11-23) is now 7 games back of second-place Richmond (18-16) with 6 games to play. There are 18 days left in the regular season. The Blizzard are 17 games back of Columbus.

FEBRUARY 2 The Blizzard loses to the Atlanta Glory, 86-79 - thus finishes the 1996-97 season 0-5 on "national TV" - 0-2 on BET, 0-3 on SportsChannel-America. Today's game was televised by SC. The Blizzard finished 1-1 on "regional TV - winning its opening game of the year (Oct. 18 vs. Richmond) on SportsChannel-New England, while losing at Columbus Dec. 10 on SportsChannel-Ohio.

FEBRUARY 8 C/F Monique Morehouse suffers a back contusion at Columbus. She flies back to New England, missing the rest of the season.

FEBRUARY 9 After going 0-for-10 in this category, the Blizzard finally wins an Eastern Conference road game - defeating Atlanta 86-66. The loss knocks Atlanta out of the playoff chase - as New England returns the same favor that Atlanta inflicted on it the previous Sunday (7 days prior).

FEBRUARY 13 The Blizzard defeats the Power, 67-63, in Hartford. The Blizzard finishes 4-0 versus the Power - the only team the Blizzard swept in '96-'97.

FEBRUARY 15 By defeating the Seattle Reign, 93-80, the Blizzard has won a team record-tying 3rd straight game...Attendance at the Hartford Civic Center ALONE through 8 dates finishes at an average of 7,412...G Carolyn Jones sets ABL records for FT's made in a game (17), AND best FT Pct. in one game (1.000- 17-of-17).

FEBRUARY 18 G Carolyn Jones earned ABL Player of the Week honors for the second time this season - for scoring 28 versus Portland, and a franchise-high 38 points versus Seattle - both in victory. It is the third such honor for a Blizzard player this season (Jones twice, Berry once).

FEBRUARY 20 In the season's final game, the Blizzard defeated the Richmond Rage, 90-71, at the Springfield Civic Center. The 1996-97 season ends with a regular-season ending league-high FIVE straight victories. Overall, the record was 16-24. At the game was a SCC record-crowd of 5,461 - meaning the Blizzard ended the season averaging an overall figure of 5,008 for 20 home games - which led the league by a wide margin over second-place Portland (4,167) and third-place Colorado (4,106). Hartford averaged 7,412 in 8 dates, while Springfield averaged 3,406 in 12 dates.

FEBRUARY 20 Carolyn Jones scored 27 points in a season-ending 90-71 victory over the Richmond Rage in Springfield - thus becoming the first ABL "scoring champion". She finished with 847 points (21.18 average) to the Atlanta Glory's Teresa Edwards' 842 points (21.05 average).

MARCH 4 The Blizzard announces it is splitting its games between Hartford and Springfield differently for '97-'98 - 16 games in Hartford, 6 in Springfield.

MARCH 15 Head coach Cliffa Foster resigns her position; interim ass't coach Joy Muller also resigns. Ass't coach Bruce Honaski remains on board temporarily, and will be offered an opportunity to interview for the assistant's position when the new head coach is named.

APRIL 28 UConn 6-7 senior center Kara Wolters signs with the ABL, and is assigned as New England's "territorial pick" in the upcoming ABL player draft. Kara is introduced at a press conference at the Hartford Civic Center Mall in front of approximately 400 adoring fans by ABL CEO Gary Cavalli and Blizzard GM Pam Batalis.

MAY 5 The Blizzard drafts seven players during the ABL draft. They include 6-7 Center Kara Wolters (UConn '97) (Rd. 1, Pick #3 overall); 6-1 forward Dale Hodges (St. Joseph's '90) (Rd. 1, Pick #9 overall); 5-8 point-guard Deanna Tate (Maryland '89) (Rd. 2, Pick #18 overall); 6-0 forward Carla Berube (UConn '97) (Rd. 3, Pick #21 overall); 5-8 guard Sandra Hodge (New Orleans '83) (Rd. 4, Pick #36 overall); 6-0 forward Corissa Yasen (Purdue '98) (Rd. 5, Pick #39 overall); 5-9 guard Wendy Davis (UConn '92) (Rd. 6, Pick #48 overall).

MAY 12 Ex-Boston Celtic legend and Hall of Famer K.C. Jones named head coach of the New England Blizzard...One day later, Jones is introduced at a press conference at the Hartford Civic Center Mall in front of the largest media contingent in Blizzard history. ABL CEO Gary Cavalli and Blizzard GM Pam Batalis introduce Jones at the press conference.

JUNE 5 Signed forward and first-round draft pick Dale Hodges (St. Joseph's '90) to a one-year contract.

JUNE 10 K.C. Jones names Belinda "Boe" Pearman his assistant coach. Pearman (Maryland '85) was the assistant women's basketball coach at Maryland for the previous 12 years under Chris Weller.

JUNE 17 Third-round draft choice F Carla Berube (UConn '97) signed to a two-year contract (plus an option year).

JULY 17 Blizzard obtains rights to G Molly Goodenbour from the Richmond Rage.

AUGUST 5 Batalis names Jeanna Polonchek head athletic trainer. Polonchek was head athletic trainer at Bridgewater State College the past seven years.

AUGUST 5 Batalis re-organizes her office. The following people have job titles changed: Steve Raczynski is now Director of Media Relations (was Director of Media and Community Relations); Heidi Josephson is now Director of Operations (was Director of Game Operations & Merchandising); Lynne Liebhauser is now Manager of Community Relations and Merchandising (was Office Manager); Jennifer Brodeur is now Office Manager & Ass't Athletic Trainer (was Athletic Trainer); Joanna Ritter and Stacy McWilliams are now Group Ticket Sales Representatives; Todd McDonald is now a Corporate Ticket Sales Representative.

AUGUST 20 The Blizzard announces its 44-game schedule for Year #2.

AUGUST 23 Blizzard trades G Molly Goodenbour to the Portland Power for a '98 conditional draft pick (it turns out to be a third-round pick).

AUGUST 28 The Blizzard adds 6-4 C/F La'Shawn Brown as a tryout player.

SEPTEMBER 4 Blizzard opens practice for Year #2 at Western New England College.

SEPTEMBER 10 Batalis announces veteran 6-2 C/F Dana Johnson released.

SEPTEMBER 12 The Blizzard announces a local 3-game TV broadcast package with WFSB-TV Ch. 3 (CBS affiliate) for the 1997-98 season.

SEPTEMBER 13 The Blizzard defeats the Philadelphia Rage, 81-76, at the New Haven Coliseum to go 1-0 in exhibition play.

SEPTEMBER 15 The Blizzard announces 6-4 C/F La'Shawn Brown and 5-8 G Sandra Hodge have bowed out as tryout players.

SEPTEMBER 19 The Blizzard adds 5-10 G/F Tara Davis as a tryout player.

SEPTEMBER 20 Batalis announces the Blizzard has traded a conditional 1998 draft pick (it turned out to be a 4th-round pick) to the Colorado Xplosion for 5-11 F Traci Thirdgill.

SEPTEMBER 20 The Blizzard's exhibition record goes to 2-0 as it beats Columbus in Marion, Ohio, 79-69.

SEPTEMBER 24 The Blizzard and Reebok unveil 18,000-square foot mural of Kara Wolters and Carla Berube on the side of the G. Fox Building in Hartford.

SEPTEMBER 27 The Blizzard's 1997-98 final exhibition record falls to 2-1 as the Seattle Reign defeats the Blizzard, 69-58, at Municipal Auditorium in downtown Kansas City, Missouri.

SEPTEMBER 29 The Blizzard announces that G/F Tara Davis beats out G Wendy Davis for the 11th and final '97-'98 roster spot.

OCTOBER 3 K.C. Jones names Carolyn Jones and Jennifer Rizzotti co-captains for the 1997-98 season- the same two co-captains as for 1996-97.

OCTOBER 12 The Blizzard open Year #2 with K.C. Jones' ABL coaching debut and an 86-66 victory over the Atlanta Glory in front of an ABL record crowd of 12,623.

NOVEMBER 10 Director of Operations Heidi Josephson resigns.

NOVEMBER 18 Bruce Honaski, the first ass't coach in Blizzard history, dies in his home in Texarkana, TX at the age of 47, after a year-long bout with cancer.

DECEMBER 4 Batalis names Will Gillespie Director of Operations. Gillespie has had stints with the Anaheim Mighty Ducks, Stanford, and the '96 Olympic Games.

DECEMBER 12 Blizzard announce that a fourth radio station has been added to the Blizzard radio network - WILI-Radio (1410-AM in Willimantic) - joining flagship WDRC (1360-AM in Hartford), WWCO (1240-AM in Waterbury), and WSNG (610-AM in Torrington).

DECEMBER 29 Blizzard trade 5-11 F Traci Thirdgill to the Columbus Quest for 6-1 F Jannon Roland in a one-for-one deal.

JANUARY 3 The Blizzard attracts an ABL record crowd of 15,213 at the Hartford Civic Center in a 70-61 victory over the Colorado Xplosion.

JANUARY 18 The Blizzard is represented in the ABL All-Star Game in Orlando, Florida by Carolyn Jones (11 points) and Jennifer Rizzotti. The West defeated the East for the second straight year, 102-73. Jones competed in the 3-point shooting contest.

JANUARY 23 The Blizzard attracts an ABL record crowd of 15,418 at the Hartford Civic Center in a 85-81 victory over the Seattle Reign.

JANUARY 24 The Blizzard attracts its 4th and final sellout crowd of the season, but its first (and only) sellout in Springfield - 8,140 - defeating Philadelphia, 88-77.

FEBRUARY 6 With an 88-81 victory over Atlanta in Atlanta, the Blizzard clinches its first playoff berth in history (with 9 days left in its regular season).

FEBRUARY 12 The Blizzard attracts its third crowd of the year over 15,000 - this time attracting 15,340 versus the Long Beach StingRays (Blizzard won 97-63).

FEBRUARY 12 The Blizzard finishes its home regular season with an ABL record attendance of 194,848.

FEBRUARY 12 With its 34-point win over Long Beach (97-63), the Blizzard breaks its own team record for most lopsided victory.

FEBRUARY 15 By defeating Philadelphia in Philadelphia, 84-67, the Blizzard finish the regular season 24-20. They finish 12 games back of the Columbus Quest (36-8) in 2nd place in the East. The Atlanta Glory (15-29) finishes 21 games back, the Phila. Rage (13-31) finishes 23 games back. In the West, the order is Portland Power (27-17), Long Beach Sting Rays (26-18), San Jose Lasers (21-23), Colorado Xplosion (21-23), and the Seattle Reign (15-29).
